THE DEAD STATESMAN.

THE ENTIRE COUNTRY MOURNING ITS LOSS.

Messages of Condolence—Tributes to Hendricks' Memory—Arrangements for the Funeral.

[SPECIAL BY TELEGRAPH TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

INDIANAPOLIS, November 26th.—The flags on all the public buildings here are at half-mast this morning, and forces of men are engaged in putting up insignia of mourning out of respect to the memory of Vice-President Hendricks, who died last evening. In several of the city churches to-day Thanksgiving services were turned into memorial services, and Bishop Knickerbocker, of the Episcopal Church, to which Mr. Hendricks belonged, abandoned his services altogether.

Early this morning Hon. W. H. English received a dispatch from the Sergeant-at-Arms of the United States Senate, asking information about the time and place of the funeral, of which he will take charge. An answer was not returned immediately, as arrangements had not been made. At Mrs. Hendricks' suggestion a number of prominent gentlemen, personal and political friends, were called in to consult over the matter. A committee, consisting of Senator Harrison, W. H. English and Chief Justice Niblack of the Supreme Court, were appointed to take general charge of the arrangements for the funeral and public meetings.

NO POST-MORTEM TO BE HELD.

It was decided to-day not to hold a post-mortem examination of the remains, Mrs. Hendricks not thinking it necessary, as she is satisfied that her husband's death was the result of paralysis of the heart.

LOCAL FUNERAL COMMITTEES.

INDIANAPOLIS, November 26th.—The general committee, selected at Mrs. Hendricks' suggestion, to arrange for the funeral of the dead Vice-President, met this evening, and appointed the necessary sub-committees to perfect all arrangements. Senator Benj. Harrison called the meeting to order, and on his motion Hon. Wm. H. English was chosen President. It was decided to appoint a committee of fifteen, with Senator Harrison as Chairman, to receive the President and other distinguished gentlemen who will be here to attend the funeral. A general committee of thirty was appointed to attend to all the details of the funeral, and to do everything in their power to have the memorial observances attended with all the marks of respect and esteem which Hendricks' fellow-citizens desire to pay him. Of this committee Hon. Oscar B. Hord, the law partner of deceased, was appointed Chairman, and it was divided into the necessary sub-committees.

THE FUNERAL.

The funeral will take place at noon on Tuesday, the procession leaving the house at 11:45 o'clock for the church, in the following order: Police, military companies, civic societies, the President, members of the Cabinet and U. S. Senators, pall-bearers, the hearse, family carriages; State, county and city officers and citizens.

FINAL DISPOSITION OF THE REMAINS.

The body will be placed in a casket on Saturday, which, after the funeral, will be placed in a marble vault at Crown Hill Cemetery, north of the city, near Mr. Hendricks' private lot, elevated above the common level, and in the center of which is a granite column forty feet high, plain and uncovered except the simple inscription, "Thomas A. Hendricks." Near the bottom of the shaft his son, his only child, is buried. R. H. Parks, the sculptor, will arrive from Chicago in the morning and take a cast of Mr. Hendricks' face, to be used in making the marble bust of him.

AT THE FAMILY RESIDENCE.

Around the Hendricks' family residence all day there was a crowd of curious people, who watched the solemn tread of the uniformed sentry marching up and down in front of the house, and the coming and going of sympathetic friends and relatives, who called. Mrs. Hendricks stayed in her room all day, and saw but few people; but the parlors down stairs were filled with callers, who were received by her brother, Stephen W. Morgan and his family, and Dr. Jenckes, rector of their church. She talked calmly and composedly with her friends, only breaking down with outbursts of grief once or twice. The house was darkened, and everybody moved about with a quiet tread. In the large double parlors, where Mr. Hendricks was accustomed to see his friends, were many articles with which they were very familiar. An old-fashioned portrait in oil, painted when the Vice-President was a young man, is on the wall, and the features had a boyish look, free from care or anxiety. On the table were several panel photographs, taken recently. One that was particularly noticeable was taken on the day preceding his inauguration as Vice-President. On the stand in a corner was the collection of canes, twenty or more, which had been presented to him by admiring friends, and some of them were unique in design and inscription. The library cases, in which were many valuable and rare books, were just as he had left them when he had occasion Monday evenings to look up some works of reference. The body lay in a parlor chamber upstairs, and a few were allowed to see it. The embalming process, to which it was subjected this morning, had been successfully accomplished, and on the face there was a look of contentment and freedom from care. The features are wonderfully natural and unmarred by a suggestion of ghastliness. In the room adjoining, where the Vice-President died, was his private desk, covered with papers and letters, which had not been disturbed, and a half-written sketch of his public and professional career, which he was preparing for publication in a book containing the proceedings of the Convention which framed the Constitution of Indiana in 1850, and sketches of its members. The decorations of the room were plain and conventional. The windows were darkened, and within all day long sat the faithful colored servant, who had been in the family for years. There was no pretentious display of mourning about the premises, there being only a few folds of crape on the front door, above the bell. Just a block away the State-house, with a large black flag at half-mast, and all the exterior draped in mourning, stood out in bold relief, but all the offices were closed, and public business for the time was suspended. Among the callers at the residence to-day were Governor Gray, the State officers, Judges of the Supreme Court and committees appointed by the various legal and fraternal organizations.

PROCLAMATION BY THE GOVERNOR OF INDIANA.

INDIANAPOLIS, November 26th.—Governor Gray has issued the usual proclamation, closing as follows:

The distinguished dead will lie in state in the corridor of the Marion County Court-house from Sunday noon next until the following Monday afternoon. Therefore, I, Isaac P. Gray, Governor of the State of Indiana, do hereby issue this proclamation, requesting that at the hour of 12 o'clock, noon, on the 1st day of December, 1885, the day set apart for the funeral of the distinguished dead, all citizens meet in their usual places of worship and public assemblage, and there engage in such services as may to them seem appropriate to the solemn occasion; the flags on all public buildings of the State to be displayed at half mast, and places of business to be closed from said hour until the hour of 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and recommending that all public buildings of the State be draped in mourning for a period of thirty days from this date, and that during the day aforesaid all such buildings be closed, and that all public business be suspended, to the end that the people may have and enjoy the fullest opportunity to do honor to the departed statesman, and to make such recognition of his public and private virtues as may to them seem best and most consistent. The Adjutant-General will prepare and have issued all the necessary orders to the various military organizations to meet at their respective armories, for appropriate military honors to be made during the day.

In testimony whereof, I have set my hand, and caused to be affixed the seal of the State at Indianapolis, this 26th day of November, A. D. 1885, and in the sixty-ninth year of the State, and in the one hundred and tenth year of the Independence of the United States.

ISAAC P. GRAY, Governor.

AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, November 26th.—The work of draping the various public buildings with mourning emblems was begun to-day, but on account of the holiday and the stores all being closed, and the consequent impossibility of obtaining mourning goods, very little progress was made. The draping of the White House, Interior, State, War and Navy Departments building is nearly completed. For the same reason, probably, very few of the stores or private residences in this city are decorated. Flags all over the city floated at half-mast all day. At the Treasury Department telegram poured in all day from custodians of public buildings throughout the country, asking to be authorized to drape the buildings under their charge with emblems of mourning. Telegraphic authorization to do so was sent in about sixty cases. The Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate this afternoon received a telegram from Hon. William H. English, saying the funeral would take place on Tuesday next at 12 o'clock.

CONGRESSIONAL FUNERAL COMMITTEES.

WASHINGTON, November 26th.—About twenty Senators assembled at 11 o'clock this morning, upon the invitation of Senator Edmunds, in the Judiciary Committee-room of the Senate, to select a committee to represent the Senate at the funeral of the Vice-President, and selected the following committee: Senators Edmunds, Sherman, Harris, Allison, Voorhees, Pugh, Cullom, Gibson, Conger, Blair, Dawes, Camden and Vest. Most of the Senators named were at the meeting. In addition were present Senators Logan, Morrill, Waltham, Dolph, Van Wyck, Morgan, Jones of Arkansas, Berry, Cockerell, Ransom. There were expressions of sorrow on all hands, but in view of the near approach of the meeting of the Senate, no formal or eulogistic speeches were made. The Chairman of the meeting, Senator Edmunds, and Sergeant-at-Arms Canaday were authorized to make the necessary arrangements for the transportation and entertainment of the committee.

There was also a meeting of about twenty-five members of the House in the Speaker's room, at which the Clerk was authorized to request the attendance at the funeral of the following members, as representatives of the House: Carlisle, Randall, Hiscock, Long, Phelps, Hepburn, Browne, Bynam, Morrison, Holman, Herbert, Blunt, Barbour, Hewitt and Geddes. General Clark notified by telegraph those of the gentlemen named not in the city of their selection, and requested their attendance.

MESSAGES OF CONDOLENCE.

Messages of condolence were received from hundreds of promient men all over the country, among which were the following:

GREYSTONE, N. Y., November 26, 1885.
Mrs. T. A. Hendricks: I am inexpressibly shocked by the surprising and painful intelligence of the sudden closing of the career of your husband. He has fallen with honors thick upon him and in the acme of his popular esteem. In your personal bereavement I deeply sympathize, while in common with the whole country I deplore the loss of Mr. Hendricks as a public calamity.
SAMUEL J. TILDEN.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., November 26, 1885.
Mrs. Hendricks: Accept for Mrs. Davis and myself our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of your greatest sorrow and deepest bereavement.
DAVID DAVIS.

WASHINGTON, November 26, 1885.
The sympathy of Mrs. Springer and myself is extended on this, your great bereavement and the nation's irreparable loss.
WILLIAM M. SPRINGER.

The Japanese Minister, Kilkui, also sends his very sincere sympathy to Mrs. Hendricks in her bereavement, and his deep sorrow at the death of the Vice-President, for whom he entertained the highest personal respect and regard. Other similar messages were received from Senator Dawes of Massachusetts, Congressmen Ward, Kleiner and Cobb of Indiana, John F. Agnew of New York, S. Corning Judd of Chicago and many others.

WASHBURNE'S TRIBUTE.

CHICAGO, November 26th.—The following telegram was sent from here to-day to Indianapolis by Hon. E. B. Washburne, ex-Minister to France:

CHICAGO, November 26th.
Hon. Wm. H. English, Indianapolis: I hear with emotion of the sudden death of our old colleague, Vice-President Hendricks. Yourself, Mr. Hendricks and myself served together in the Thirty-third Congress. I saw much of him afterwards as Commissioner of the General Land Office, and as United States Senator from the State of Indiana. Though opposed politically, our present relations were always of the most friendly and cordial character. In public life he was honest and incorruptible, and was never in any scheme or job. In private life he was always honored, esteemed and respected by all who knew him. I intend to pay my tribute of respect to his memory by attending his funeral.
E. B. WASHBURNE.

HENRY WARD BEECHER'S VIEWS.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—A World representative last evening interviewed Henry Ward Beecher, who said: "While I regard President Cleveland as the prince of statesmen, I would call Hendricks the prince of politicians. Cleveland has fulfilled every desire of those independent-thinking men who sought to secure his election. He has endeavored to serve the people, not the party alone. On the other hand, Hendricks has ever identified himself with that class of men who subordinate everything to party. He was a stanch believer in the rule that 'to the victors belong the spoils.' While the family of Hendricks has my deepest sympathy, my heart is filled with thanksgiving that President Cleveland and the Government at Washington still live."

JAY GOULD'S OPINION.

Jay Gould said that Hendricks' death would not affect the material interests of the country. There are 55,000,000 of people here who can take care of themselves in every emergency, and the death of even the greatest man among us would not cause a ripple. As for the market, he did not believe the news would affect it in the least.

NAMES OF VICE-PRESIDENTS WHO HAVE DIED WHILE HOLDING OFFICE.

WASHINGTON, November 26th.—Hendricks makes the fifth Vice-President of the United States who has died in the occupation of the office. The first was George Clinton, of New York, who died in 1804, after presiding over the Senate eight years. The next Vice-President to die in office was Elbridge Gerry, of Massachusetts, whose funeral took place in this city in 1814, one year after his election, and whose ashes repose in the Congressional cemetery in East Washington. William R. King, of Alabama, was the next to follow. He was in poor health when elected, and at the time of the inauguration of Pierce Mr. King was in Cuba. The oath of office was administered to him there by the American Consul. Soon afterward he returned to his plantation at Cahaba, Ala., and before the meeting of Congress died. He did not live ever to preside over the Senate. Henry Wilson, of Massachusetts, who was elected on the ticket with Grant in 1873, died in the room of the Vice-President at the Capitol in 1875. He was buried at Natick, Mass.

THE PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION.

WASHINGTON, November 26th.—Justice Miller of the United States Supreme Court, in speaking of the Presidential succession, said to-night: "If Mr. Edmunds had been elected President pro tempore of the Senate at the recent extra session of that body, he would now be the constitutional successor to the Presidency in case of the death of Mr. Cleveland during his term of office, though the term of office of the President pro tem. can be terminated at will by the voice of the Senate."

"Do you think that the sudden death of the Vice-President will give rise to a constitutional amendment defining more closely the status of the President pro tempore of the Senate?"

"No; it is not needed. The President pro tempore holds office until the return of of the Vice-President, or until the Senate elects his successor. Nor is his tenure of office limited to a single session, for the Senate is a body in perpetuo, not expiring by limitation, as does the House of Representatives."

Ex-Justice Strong, of the Supreme Court, said: "It is customary at the close of a session of the Senate for the Vice-President to leave the chair and permit an election of a President pro tempore, in order that there might be succession to the President in case of the sudden death of both President and Vice-President. Mr. Hendricks, I understand, declined to permit an election pro tempore of the Senate. Consequently, that body is now without a presiding officer, and if Mr. Cleveland should also die before the meeting of Congress the country would be without a head, and a most difficult problem would be offered for solution. Constitutional amendment is not necessary, but Congressional enactment is certainly needed, and under the circumstances will probably be adopted by the incoming Congress, vesting the Presidential succession in case of death of the President, Vice-President and Speaker of the House in the hands of the Secretary of State until an election could be held. In that contingency the Secretary of State would be legally only acting President, though by courtesy he would be called President. The same would be true of Vice-President, President pro tem. or Speaker of the House in case of succession falling upon either of them."

THE FEELING IN NEW YORK POLITICAL CIRCLES.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—The general feeling in Democratic circles in regard to the taking-off of Mr. Hendricks is that of hasty and quick-spoken regret, while all the regrets have a ground-work on the question as to who shall be his successor as President of the Senate. In Republican circles the belief is oftenest expressed that General John A. Logan or Hon. John Sherman will be elected. Both the Tammany and County Democracy hold meetings to-morrow to take action, and Irving Hall will act Saturday.

THE SUCCESSION.

What Would Be Done in Case of President Cleveland's Death.

The following provisions of the Revised Statutes explain the manner in which a Chief Magistrate would be chosen in the event of the death of both President and Vice-President:

Section 146. In case of removal, death, resignation or inability of both the President and Vice-President of the United States, the President of the Senate, or, if there is none, then the Speaker of the House of Representatives, for the time being, shall act as President until the disability is removed or a President elected.

Section 147. Whenever the offices of President and Vice-President both become vacant, the Secretary of State shall forthwith cause a notification thereof to be made to the Executive of every State, and shall also cause the same to be published in at least one of the newspapers printed in each State.

Section 148. The notification shall specify that electors of President and Vice-President of the United States shall be appointed or chosen in the several States, as follows:

First—If there shall be the space of two months yet to ensue between the date of such notification and the first Wednesday in December then next ensuing, such notification shall specify that the electors shall be appointed or chosen within thirty-four days preceding such first Wednesday in December.

Second—If there shall not be the space of two months between the date of such notification and such first Wednesday in December, and if the term for which the President and Vice-President last in office were elected will not expire on the third day of March next ensuing, the notification shall specify that the electors shall be appointed or chosen within thirty-four days preceding the first Wednesday in December in the year next ensuing.

But if there shall not be the space of two months between the date of such notification and the first Wednesday in December then next ensuing, and if the term for which the President and Vice-President last in office were elected will expire on the third day of March next ensuing, the notification shall not specify that electors are to be appointed or chosen.

Section 149. Electors, appointed or chosen upon the notification prescribed by the preceding section, shall meet and give their votes upon the first Wednesday of December specified in the notification.

CHINESE VANDALS.—The following is from the Vallejo Chronicle of November 25th:

A Chronicle representative was shown a lot of small fish this morning that were procured from Chinese fishermen who have been fishing down in the bay in the vicinity of San Pablo Point. The sample consisted of about a couple dozen, embracing smelt, shad, flounders and perch; and the largest was not much longer than a person's finger. It is at once apparent that to have caught these small fish, they must have used nets of small mesh in violation of the law. If the Chinamen are allowed to catch the young shad, the waters will soon be robbed of this variety of fish.

A RUNAWAY FROM KANSAS.—The Humboldt Standard, of November 20th, furnishes the following:

We learn that a first-class cyclone passed over Cooper's Mad river ranch Tuesday, wrecking the barn, blowing down trees and scattering fences. Such things as tornadoes have never been indigenous to the Pacific slope. A great many things have been imported into the State from the East, but there has never been the slightest desire, so far as we know, to transport the Kansas or Nebraska cyclone.

ROUGH RAILROADING.—We find this in the Redding Independent:

"Flunk" Warner and his crew, who run the "swing" between here and Delta, have had a rough time of it since the storm set in. Going to Delta, the other morning, while the rain was pouring down in torrents, the crew would have to go ahead and remove large bowlders from the track which had rolled down from the mountain side. This kind of weather is rough on the railroad boys.

SPAIN.

The death of King Alfonso gives rise to speculations regarding the future of the Spanish people in their establishment of a new government. There is now no Serrano at the front, who in 1874 so masterly conquered the Carlist pretender. The quality that should distinguish a Republican leader in the crisis of action, and which was so sadly wanting in the brilliant Castelar, exists in no known Republican in Spain now. That occasions and great crises develop men for them is true, but not always so. It proved a false hope in the decade of the seventies, and there is nothing in the lives of the leading men of Republican convictions now in Spain to indicate that the right man could be raised up at once to seize upon the occasion that now presents for another trial of republicanism. For a foreigner has been named as Regent, and that fact will give rise to trouble. The aim of Castelar was a right and a lofty one; but he failed in that quality of courage and firmness that should have stood him in service when Salmeron in January, 1874, procured a vote of the Cortes of lack of confidence in the Castelar administration, upon the declaration of which that statesman and scholar resigned, to be succeeded by the dictatorship of Serrano. That event saved the country from the tyranny and cruelty of Carlist rule. It is possible that the Jesuits of Rome and the Carlist sympathisers in Europe will now attempt to advance the standard of that house. If so, there is sore trouble in store for Spain. The son of Isabella came to the throne under the declaration of General Campos, before which the Sagasta Ministry gave way, and Marshal Serrano laid down the baton of the Presidency. In 1875 Alfonso was crowned, being then scarcely 18 years of age. The Pope was his godfather, and his relation to the Vatican was therefore one of great danger to the country. The Carlists were still in the field; the nation was without money or credit; Rome was demanding the concession of all the old powers which gave it the right to drive out all forms of worship except that of its church, and the right to exercise the most absolute power over conscience; the King's mother, who had scandalized the name of royalty, was plotting to be reseated upon the Spanish throne; the counselors of the King were divided in opinions and ambitions, were jealous of each other and none too loving of the new ruler. The whole country was in confusion and hung upon the verge of anarchy. At such a time, and in such a condition of affairs, the boy King assumed the reins of government. Early in 1876 he was so fortunate as to drive the Carlists to their last post, and to effectually suppress that uprising. His administration from this on was marked by an unexpected breadth, tolerance and progressiveness. Rome was conciliated, though still clinging to the concordat of 1851, that prohibited utterly all religious rites in Spain except those of the Roman Church, by the recognition of the Catholic as the State religion, coupled with the constitutional declaration that no one should be coerced because of his religious beliefs or practices, but that no church ceremonies of a public character should be tolerated, except those approved at the Vatican. It was a very narrow grant of liberty to Protestants, and of even this they were most frequently deprived by officious royalists. Five years later, with Sagasta restored to power—and who is now to form a new Cabinet—Alfonso's Government declared in favor of much greater liberty of conscience, and pronounced for liberal reforms in the educational system. Slavery was abolished in the Antilles in 1881, the censorship of the press was removed. Cuba, by liberality to its people, and the extension to them of the full rights and privileges of Spanish subjects in Spain, was saved to the Crown; the finances of the state were in part disentangled, education received a new impetus, and generally the young King's administration promised for the country great progression. The last three years, however, have not been so encouraging for the cause of humanity as was the promise of the two preceding. A crisis has been precipitated by the death of Alfonso. As yet the nation has not been plunged into the disasters that usually attach to King-making in that unhappy country. The infant daughter of Alfonso has been declared Queen, and is to rule by the regency of her mother, who is not Spanish and at best is a weak person. Such rule invariably develops jealousies, revolts and shock of arms. What the outcome of the next few weeks will be in Spain no man can foresee. The unexpected is pretty sure to happen. The regency of a foreigner will be assailed possibly, and by candidates who will be hotly championed by their partisans. This may bring on revolt. The Church of Rome will certainly foster any movement that will restore the old order of things, break the back of the liberal Constitution of 1876, and revoke the declaration of Alfonso under the laws of 1881. If we suppose the queen mother to be deposed, we shall probably find Canovas a candidate. He is an intolerant. If he were given charge of the young Queen's kingdom it would be the worse for the people of tolerant beliefs. The clericals would rule through him, and all the world knows just what that would mean. Sagasta would make a good Regent. He is broad-minded and clear-sighted. Nine years ago he favored absolute religious freedom and the very mildest kind of monarchy. The Republicans may be expected to make a feeble demonstration, but they lack organization and unity of purpose. Republicanism means in Spain a very much narrower view of the rights of man than obtains under Americanism. The pretenders that always spring up when a King of Spain dies will come to the front once more, we may reasonably expect. The Socialists, who train under the disguise of a sort of bloody republicanism, will again attempt to make trouble, and to a limited extent will succeed in alarming the country. But it is probable that the infant Queen will be protected and through a Regency will rule to her majority, and that that Regency will partake of the progressiveness and liberality that marked the reign of her father, and who, after all that can be said, made a better ruler for Spain than any one expected, and did more for that nation, in the light of human rights in this day, than any predecessor.

MR. HENLEY'S BELIEF.

Mr. Congressman Henley pronounces adversely to civil service reform, "as defined and carried out." This is precisely what was to have been expected from Mr. Henley. He represents the corpse of a dead and gone Democracy. He has not been long enough returned from Mexico to find out that a new Democracy has place in the affairs of this country. His kind of Democrats look upon the offices of the country as the loaves of reward for hungry party servitors—not as agencies for carrying on a system of organized government in the interests of all the people. In taking the position that he does, Mr. Henley puts himself at issue with the President, who is supposed to be the head of the Democratic party. He flies in the face of the platform on which that President was elected, and his letter of acceptance of the nomination, in which he explicitly told the people that he believed in, and would sustain the civil service laws of the country "as defined and carried out." The President has shown a disposition to prove true to his word, while the Henley stripe of his party has openly signified its desire that he shall coolly repudiate his ante-election declarations. Fortunately for the country, there is a class of Democrats in that party who believe with the President, and have the courage to stand by him. Mr. Henley should shake himself, and come to a realization, if he can, that his kind of Democracy is out of date, and has gone to its grave clothes along with the rebellion, slavery, spoils of office, and other relics of a by-gone era.

A HYDRAULIC mining paper says of Marysville: "There will surely be another flood, and the rivers will not be dredged in time to save the town. Rideout, Jewett and other Republican candidates for Governor had better get out of the doomed city before it is too late to have their political aspirations annihilated." It is well that this has been said. The spirit that actuated the expression is not one most men would be proud to possess. But it may aid some people who have thought that a compromise between hydraulic mining and valley interests is possible, to see that such a thing is out of the question. Here we have a mountain paper coolly predicting the destruction of a fair city of the State, and evidencing a desire that such an event shall come about. If it does the result will be wholly due to the system of mining referred to, and the neglect of the Federal Government to afford the people the protection that it is bound to give.

THE teachers' institutes are about to meet throughout the State. It is an open question whether these institutes in their results pay the cost. It is certain that very many of the teachers of the State are averse to attending them, and that is a bad sign at the outset of the consideration of the question. There might be a modification of the system that would improve it—for instance, to take the control from the County Superintendent of Instruction and place it in the hands of the teaching class.

WHAT a farce it is, to be sure. Here are police officials in the city of San Francisco arresting and bringing to punishment the Chinese who "run" ten cent local lotteries, while the big fish, which include nearly all the leading papers of San Francisco, openly violate the law against lotteries by advertising the schemes of foreign lottery offices. Why make flesh of the one and fowl of the other?

SACRAMENTO'S TRADE.

COMPREHENSIVE REVIEW OF THE TRADE OF 1885.

The Resources of Sacramento—Her Manufactures and Volume of Trade—Future Possibilities.

Below is given a clear, concise and exhaustive statement of the amount of business done in Sacramento during the past year, the condition of her present trade and the outlook for the future. It is composed largely of extracts from the annual statement of C. A. Stevens, freight agent of the C. P. R. R., to General Superintendent A. N. Towne:

Agriculture—The prospect of a phenomenal increase in the grain product of the county is very flattering, and, with a favorable season, positively assured. For the year of 1884-5, from 6,000 acres rented on the Haggin grant, about 40,000 sacks of grain were realized. For the season of 1885-6, 38,000 acres have been rented, from which it is estimated 160,000 sacks of grain will be harvested, making an increase of 120,000 sacks over any former period in the history of this section. From careful inquiries made and personal observation, we judge there will be no decrease in the grain acreage of smaller parcels of land adjacent to Sacramento. The yield per acre, presumptively, will be largely in excess of the season just passed.

Viniculture and Horticulture—There will be no notable change from the present season. Some of the hop land may be converted into alfalfa or vegetable patches, or planted to trees, but any such change will be too unimportant to affect the traffic of the railroad to any appreciable extent. Nurserymen are preparing to do a larger business than usual the coming spring. Their trade is purely speculative; large sales are dependent upon a favorable season. One salesman thus positively expresses himself: "If Providence is on our side, we expect to fill more orders than ever."

Grazing—There is very little grazing land adjacent to this city. Whatever heretofore has been unsuitable for cultivation has been utilized by the owners of small holdings for pasturage. The same may with safety be predicted for the coming season, with the single exception noted under the head of agriculture. What has previously been used by Mr. Haggin as a range for stock of various kinds is to be changed into tillage.

Mining—There is nothing of this description contributing to Sacramento.

Manufactures—There are none save of minor importance.

Milling—There are three extensive and important establishments of this kind in Sacramento, whose trade, both foreign and domestic, is steadily increasing, one of which has been idle for several months, because of damage by fire, but is now ready to resume operations. All have recently been refitted throughout with improved machinery of most modern manufacture, and will seek by every possible means to extend and hold trade, both at home and abroad. There is enough friendly strife existing between the owners to afford an active stimulus to traffic.

Lumber—There are four old and well-established yards in this city, besides two box factories and the Puget Sound Lumber Company, which are actively engaged in building up trade. At a rough estimate these companies absorb annually 25,000,000 feet of material from San Francisco alone.

Building—During the season just passed one large warehouse has been erected on the banks of the river for the storage of grain, hay, hops, etc. It is the intention of Mr. Haggin to erect a warehouse on his grant, to be completed July 1, 1886. The capacity of the latter has not been stated, but it is understood to be of immense proportions. A large and elegant brick theater has been erected at Eighth and K streets. Preparations are being made for the erection of a large Catholic Cathedral in the near future, at Twelfth and K streets. A large number of residences have been erected throughout the city, and the farmers adjacent have added many buildings to those already erected. The only noticeable public improvements for 1885 have been the erection of a large school building and a hotel. The former of wood, the latter of brick.

Merchants—As a rule, all the wholesale merchants of this city are carrying extensive lines of credit. Owing to various causes, the stringency of the money market, partial failure of crops, etc., our wholesale merchants have been forced to carry their customers over to another season. Nevertheless, these very merchants are buying in the East, at the great trade centers, at the present time, heavier stocks of goods than they have ever carried before. Their customers are purchasing more liberally now than during the spring and summer months. All wholesale dealers, with the exception of the liquor merchants, agree that they have had a fair spring and summer trade. They seem reasonably content with the season passed, and very hopeful for the one to come.

Dry Goods—The trade of the past ten months has been a reasonably good one. Profits have been smaller, but expenses have been curtailed, and sales a fair average with former years. The outlook for the coming season is very moderate. Dealers will only purchase when obliged to do so.

Fruit—The business of all houses has been largely in excess of any preceding year. Some claim to have doubled their sales; but while the volume has been augmented the profits have not advanced correspondingly. Outlooks for the future are very encouraging so far as traffic is concerned.

Stoves and Stove Furniture—The leading house of this city has about held its record up to the present, if anything a little less than former years, but the discrepancy will likely disappear before the annual ledger is closed. No large purchases are contemplated at the Eastern manufactories.

Wagon Material—This important industry seems on the decline. Dealers confess their inability to cope with the low prices of buggies finished in the East and brought to this coast and sold through the various commercial agencies. Ten per cent. would not be a large estimate to express the degree of loss, and the coming season will ultimately witness a still further reduction.

Buggies—Probably the largest dealer on this coast says his trade has fallen off during the present season. There has been less demand, and payments have not been as good as formerly. There are no good grounds for anticipating a revival of trade, and no especial arrangements are making for an increase in demand.

Drugs—There have been some material gains in this line of trade during the past year. There have also been some minor losses. The gains, however, have more than compensated. Long credits have been given, and collections slow. Prospects for any increase in traffic from this source cannot be realized.

Agricultural Implements—The present season's sales have been up to the average. Surprise and gratification were expressed at the result. The only serious cause of complaint was shown in the fact of their being compelled to extend the credits of purchasers. While no great anxiety was shown on this score, yet a disposition to carry lighter stocks for the coming trade was manifested.

Barbed Wire—There is one firm in this city whose annual consumption will aggregate not far from 350 cases of barbed wire.

Furniture—In some instances the past year's sales have been fairly good and satisfactory, and up to the average of previous seasons, with good collections and short credits; while in other cases the reverse has been true, the sales showing a tendency to decrease from a tenth to a sixth over former similar periods. Purchases in Eastern cities will be confined for the present to actual demands. Little hope is felt of any improvement.

Settlement—The Northern California Immigration Association was organized September 18, 1884, for the express purpose of promoting settlement. This association was composed of local associations in nearly all the northern counties. It was expected that the support of the parent organization would come from the local associations. With three exceptions this expectation has not been realized. Support has come almost wholly from the Sacramento county organization, which is composed of tradesmen of this city. So far these merchants have responded liberally, contributing some $2,200. The only expense attached to this organization is for the Secretary, room rent, stationery, fuel, gas, etc. The Treasurer and other officers give valuable time and services to promote the usefulness of the Society, cheerfully and freely. The only paid officer is the Secretary, Dr. Latham, a man of culture, and qualified in every way to fill the position. This society suggests the propriety of granting an immigrant a thirty days' lay-over ticket instead of ten days, and also that he have the privilege of returning his baggage free from San Francisco. If by any means the valuable tract of land owned by J. B. Haggin, and situated just outside the city limits, could be subdivided into small holdings and offered to actual settlers, another inducement would be offered the immigrant. No more alluring temptation could be suggested to "facilitate production" and "increase the business" of this section.

The following full car loads that were shipped east from January 1st to November were billed from this city: Green fruit, 730; vegetables, 125; leather from Napa, 55; beans, 6; canned goods, fruit and salmon, 165; hops, 260; barley, 16; wool, Napa and Nevada points, 155; hides, 12; raisins, 28; refined borax, Alameda, 8; nuts, 14; dried fruit, 13; wine, 70; alfalfa, 3; brandy, 12.

PACIFIC COAST ITEMS.

There are 466 men at work at Mare Island this week.

Calistoga will vote on the question of incorporating December 21st.

Vacaville wants 1,000 negroes to locate in that township to supplant Chinamen.

The street railroad on San Joaquin street, Stockton, is to be extended to Agricultural Park.

It is proposed to organize a Parlor of Native Daughters of the Golden West in Colusa.

A recent Calistoga baby weighed twelve pounds and measured 17½ inches around the neck.

The building of the western division of the Canadian Pacific is said to have cost the lives of 1,500 Chinamen.

A Mormon, who was accidentally killed in Utah the other day, left sixty-seven children to mourn his loss.

Bears are more numerous in Marin county than for years past, especially in the vicinity of Bolinas ridge, where three were recently killed.

Helena, M. T., taxes skating rinks $200 a month, and it is rumored that Butte will soon pass a law looking to the imposing of the same amount.

Three hundred white laborers are wanted to work on the Cascade division of the Northern Pacific Railroad, between Yakima and Ellensburg, W. T.

The editor of the Haywards Journal has been challenged to fight a duel on account of an item recently published by him, but he declines the honor.

Santa Rosa has a remarkable town clock. When the hour-hand points at 6 and the clock strikes seventeen the people then know it is exactly 12 o'clock.

A Santa Cruz ditch-digger has unearthed a skeleton on Mission street. It has been in the ground a long time, and is believed to have belonged to a woman.

The St. Helena Times learns that a railroad car is capable of containing from 23,000 to 25,000 pounds of wine. A gallon of wine weighs about nine pounds.

A Virginia (Nev.) property-holder is much exercised over being assessed for $1,800 on a piece of property which he recently bought from the county for $50.

According to the Truckee Republican the mountains around that place abound with fur-bearing animals, the pursuit of which for their pelts should make a profitable occupation.

A cloud-burst recently at Lincoln, Placer county, swept away a number of buildings around a mine and filled the shaft so quickly that the miners barely escaped with their lives.

Competent carpenters are scarce in San Bernardino county. Building improvements are so great that the supply of skillful workmen is insufficient to keep pace with them.

Fresno county is always doing something progressive. Selma has built a pork-packing establishment, not yet extensive, but large enough to enable farmers to dispose of their hogs to much better advantage than by shipping.

MINING NOTES.

Some very fine gold specimens are being brought to light at Summerville, Siskiyou county.

An important discovery is reported near Missoula, M. T., ore assays showing as high as $300 to the ton.

It is currently reported that the gold mine situated one mile south of Fresno, has been sold to an Arizona company.

A strike that promises to bring wealth to the owner was made in the Morey mine at Grizzly Flat, El Dorado county, last week.

A number of rich finds are reported in the Burnt River mining district in Baker county, Or., and prospectors are flocking in there.

Capitalists have lately gone to Groveland, Tuolumne county, invested in mines and given renewed activity to the interests of that camp.

Some fine-looking quartz has been found in a ledge located about one mile from Nevada City. The specimens show many specks of gold.

A very rich body of ore has been encountered at a depth of fifty feet in Cornelius Brown & Co.'s silver mine, near Anaconda, M. T.

A big job of tunneling is going on in the Indian Queen mine, near Benton, Mono county. The new tunnel is already in over 2,000 feet, with 600 feet yet to go.

The Fortuna mine, at Nevada City, has recently been examined by experts, with a view to purchase. The shaft is full of water. The mine has a reputable history.

The State Line mine, at Gold Mountain, in the south end of Esmeralda county, Nevada, at the California boundary, started up its mill on 500 tons of ore lying on the dump.

Professor R. J. Shipley is prospecting an asbestos mine near Windsor, Sonoma county, which he discovered 25 years ago. He has found a well-defined vein extending 300 feet.

A complete outfit for a five-stamp quartz mill, with hoisting works, pumps, etc., for the Cox ranch mines, arrived at Colton from Chicago last week, and were shipped to their destination by teams.

The Fish Commission Difficulty.

EDS. RECORD-UNION: I desire to correct certain statements made in your paper some ten days back in an interview which your reporters had with Fish Commissioners Dibble and Buckingham. Dibble is there made to state that he was instrumental in getting me appointed on the Fish Commission. This is not so. I was appointed by Governor Perkins months before A. B. Dibble was appointed by Governor Stoneman. I never saw either Buckingham or Dibble until after they had been appointed by Governor Stoneman, and had elected themselves President, Secretary and Treasurer, and until, also, after I had been reappointed by Governor Stoneman.

Again, Buckingham states in the interview with your paper that I was well aware of this $100-check matter, and was present when it was presented to the Board for consideration. This is not so. I ask Buckingham or Dibble to produce any record of any meeting at which I was present, or of which I had received notice, where this $100-check was under consideration; and I ask these two Commissioners to show to the public any evidence, by the biennial report or by the financial statement therein, of the receipt of this check, or of the expenditure of the same, or of any items in relation to the same.

They have stated further, in the interview with your paper, that the position I have taken is a malicious one, and that they court investigation. Let them answer the questions I have propounded through the press last week. They cannot answer them truthfully without convicting themselves; if they answer otherwise it will be evident. Yours truly,

JOSEPH D. REDDING.

NEW RIVER MINES.—The Yreka Journal of November 21st says:

Communication with the New river mines from this county is probably closed for the season, owing to deep snow on the high ranges along Salmon river. Supplies during the winter season in that section will now be derived principally from the coast, until the trails via Salmon river in this county are passable again in the spring. The farmers of Scott valley have furnished that section, however, with a good winter supply of hay, grain, butter, bacon, flour, eggs, lard, etc., and will be called on next season for a fresh supply. The mines are paying well, and can be worked to a considerable extent during the winter, giving employment to at least 300 or 400 men.

DIPHTHERIA has no terrors for parents since Red Star Cough Cure was discovered.

THANKSGIVING DAY GENERALLY OBSERVED.

A Woman Drowns Herself—Further Storm Reports—Peter Donahue Dead.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

CALIFORNIA.

Thanksgiving Day Observances.

SANTA CRUZ, November 26th.—Thanksgiving is being observed by the closing of business houses, services at the Methodist Church and turkey shooting at the beach. A firemen's ball, theatrical performance and other social amusements will take place this evening.

MARYSVILLE, November 26th.—Thanksgiving Day was observed in this city by services in the several churches and by a general closing of business houses.

PETALUMA, November 26th.—Thanksgiving was observed here by union services in the Presbyterian Church, the closing of the banks, public offices, public schools and stores. Family reunions were general, and the day passed off with much good cheer. At night a military drill and ball was given by Company C, at the Petaluma Theater, and was a brilliant affair.

MERCED, November 26th.—Thanksgiving has been generally observed here. Most of the business houses have been closed throughout the day, and union services are now being held in the Methodist Church.

Storm Reports.

YREKA (Cal.), November 26th.—There are eight feet of snow on Scott Mountain and three feet in Strawberry valley, at the base of Mt. Shasta. The Shasta river is flooding its banks so as to prevent travelers reaching its bridges except by boats.

SHASTA, November 26th.—The storm still continues. The rainfall last night was 4 inches; for the season, 22.7 inches.

CHICO, November 26th.—The Sacramento river and its tributaries have been very high here. The river stood twenty-one feet at 4 P. M. yesterday. About 4 o'clock yesterday the county bridge across Little Chico creek, on the Dayton road, gave way while a load of grain was crossing. The driver was hurt some and the team slightly injured. The accident was caused by the washing out of the center pier.

COLUSA, November 26th.—The Sacramento is within three inches of high water and rising. Patrolmen are walking the levee hourly and expecting a break.

OROVILLE, November 26th.—The storm has abated and the weather is clear; thermometer, 53°. Feather river is at a moderate stage, about six feet above low-water mark. The rainfall for the season to date is 10.50 inches. The Sacramento river is reported booming.

CAMPTONVILLE, November 26th.—Rains have raised the river here from four to five feet; not enough to damage the Sacramento. There are three feet of snow twelve miles above.

NEVADA CITY, November 26th.—The South Yuba river and Deer creek have scoured out considerably during the storm, much tailings being carried down the stream by the strong currents that prevailed. A few miles above here the water carried out an immense amount of debris, but it is still thirty and forty feet in depth in some places.

DUTCH FLAT, November 26th.—The weather is cloudy but mild, with a light wind from the northwest. About 15 inches of rain have fallen here for the season, but no damage of note has been reported in this vicinity. The snow line is two miles above town. The new debris dam in Bear river has stood the test in a satisfactory manner.

PLACERVILLE, November 26th.—The rivers are very high, but have not been impassable at any time during the storm. The stages are making regular trips on time. There has been no rainfall for thirty hours. The weather is cloudy and threatening. Snow has fallen twelve miles above; none here.

GEORGETOWN, November 26th.—The weather is still cloudy, but with a high barometer.

Signal Service Indications.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 26th.—8 P. M.—Indications for the succeeding 32 hours: North Pacific, cloudy weather and rain, followed by fair weather, with southerly winds, shifting to westerly. Middle Pacific, generally fair weather, with south-westerly winds. South Pacific, fair weather, with light to fresh winds, generally northwesterly.

Death of Peter Donahue.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 26th.—Peter Donahue, the well-known California pioneer and wealthy citizen of this city, died at 11 o'clock to-night. He complained of feeling unwell about a week ago, and since then has been confined to his house. Nothing serious was apprehended until today, when he was seized with violent cramps in the stomach, arising from inflammation of the bowels. His physician was hurriedly sent for, and although every effort was made to prolong his life, nothing availed, and he gradually grew worse, expiring at the hour named. Mr. Donahue's name is a household word on the Pacific coast, he having associated himself with all of the most prominent commercial enterprises in the city and State. He was President of the San Francisco Gas Company and of the San Francisco and North Pacific Coast Railroad Company. All the members of his family were present at the moment of his death.

The "National Steam Launch Regatta."

SAN FRANCISCO, November 26th.—The national steam launch regatta this afternoon was an uninteresting event, notwithstanding its high-sounding designation. About forty people only were present. Out of the many launches advertised as entered for the race only three competed. These were from the United States ships Hassler and Patterson and the Oriental Steamship Company. The Patterson's boat broke a crank-pin soon after the start and dropped out. The Bacific Mail Company's launch then attempted a short trial of speed with the Hassler's boat, but was not reckoned as a contestant. The Patterson's launch was the swiftest, and but for the accident would have been the winner. There being two prizes, the Hassler's boat took the first—a silver pitcher—and the Oriental Company's the second—a silver goblet. The latter boat was a mile behind when the Hassler's completed its trips over the one-mile course. The time for the ten miles was 42 minutes and 55 seconds.

Anti-Chinese Club.

SANTA CRUZ, November 26th.—An anti-Chinese club was formed at Felton last evening and a committee appointed to wait on the citizens and request them not to patronize Chinese labor in any form.

A Woman Loses a Leg.

SAN JOSE, November 26th.—At the Five-mile House, on the Monterey road, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Mrs. V. Poncelet, wife of a San Jose saloon-keeper, in alighting from her buggy, fell, her right leg being caught in the wheel. The horse plunged, and before she could be rescued the leg was terribly mangled, so that amputation below the knee-joint was inevitable. The operation was performed at once. Her recovery is very doubtful.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Suicide of a Recently Married Woman.

TACOMA, November 26th.—Esther Levy, of Portland, was married on the 11th of last October to A. Weinberg, a partner in the Tacoma house of Leon Herschberg & Co., wholesale dealers in wines and liquors. This morning, at 5 o'clock, Mrs. Weinberg arose from bed, leaving her husband asleep, found her way in the darkness to the shore of the bay, plunged in and was drowned. Some men near by seeing her enter the water started in a small boat to her rescue, but the boat capsized and the men swam ashore. About four hours later her body, without clothing other than a night dress and stockings, was found floating under the railroad trestle. The supposed cause was temporary insanity. Deceased was 22 years of age.

Suicide with Morphine.

VANCOUVER, November 26th.—Benjamin H. Reeves, a farm hand, working six miles east of this city, committed suicide to-day with morphine. He is said to be a brother-in-law of ex-Senator Sargent of California.

ALFALFA PROFITS.—We find the following in the San Bernardino Times:

Sanford Booke, of Rincon, has just harvested a crop of alfalfa seed, from 3½ acres of land, which yielded 3,000 pounds of seed, worth 11 cents per pound, or $330. Mr. Booke has already, this season, taken from the same ground three crops of alfalfa hay, and he states that, after paying all expenses of the crops, he has netted $100 per acre.

SAN FRANCISCO ITEMS.

Governor Stoneman has accepted the resignation of W. R. Smedberg, Colonel of the Second Regiment of Artillery. Colonel Smedberg has been placed on the retired list.

It is announced that Surveyor-General Hammond will appoint no new officers before next May. Wm. McPherson Hill has been appointed Deputy Collector of Customs in place of Mack Webber, resigned.

The "30,000 men who joined the Anti-Coolie League last Sunday at the sand lot," all of whom, according to the veracious O'Donnell, intended to turn out in his Thanksgiving Day parade, really numbered, as they marched through the streets, Thursday afternoon, about 1,500.

The report of ex Governor Irwin's appointment to the Surveyorship of the Port has received no positive confirmation, but is generally believed about the Federal buildings. The news created surprise, as the position of Harbor Commissioner, now held by Governor Irwin, is considered at least as important as that of Surveyor of the Port.

A party of Central Pacific surveyors have been making out a new route for the California and Oregon from Siskiyou to Ashland, Or. The survey has proceeded as far north as Neil creek. The bridge-builders and tunnel men have completed their labors on the line above Delta for the present, and have returned to this city. The roadbed as far north as Slate creek is nearly ready for the rails.

Wednesday afternoon Yasushi Nomura and Y. N. Takahaslai, respectively Postmaster-General and Assistant Postmaster-General of the Empire of Japan, arrived in this city from Washington. They will sail on the next steamer for Japan, thus completing a tour of the world which has occupied about sixteen months. They have been abroad inquiring into the postal systems of Germany, France, England and Spain, and since their arrival in this country have examined into the American system.

At a meeting of the Trustees of the California Fruit Union Wednesday the revision of the constitution ordered at the last meeting was completed. Two new sections were inserted, one providing that sub-corporations of fruit-growers in local districts may take stock as a corporation and the other authorizing the establishment of local Boards by three adjacent counties. They are permitted to organize with not more than six members and to elect a Chairman, but all other duties are to be filled by the regular officers of the general union. The purpose of the section is to permit certain localities, especially the Southern citrus region, in part to control the shipment of their own fruit. They are permitted to make special transportation rates.

PETRIFIED WHALE.—The Monterey Argus of November 21st says:

Captain S. Forney, of the United States Coast Survey, who was in town a few days ago, reports the finding of a perfect petrified skeleton of a whale on the range of mountains from San Simeon bay to Point Sur, in this county, at an altitude of 3,300 feet above sea level, and three miles distant from the coast. The skeleton was 32 feet in length. Reported discoveries of sections of petrified whale have frequently been made, and much farther back from the coast, but this is the first authentic discovery of the skeleton entire that we have heard of.

Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys, and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache and generally tone up the system.

Resolutions by the University Faculty.

The action of the Faculty of the State University in regard to the students' resolutions, recently adopted, and which were published in the RECORD-UNION, has just been made public, and consists of the adoption of the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, The students of this University have recently taken action designed to counteract certain injurious impressions prevailing in some parts of the State, respecting the character and moral tone of the student community in Berkeley; and, whereas, the professors and instructors at Berkeley are also vitally interested in the good name and just appreciation of the University; therefore be it

Resolved, By the Academic Council comprising the said professors and instructors—

1. That any current reports of unusual and deplorable misconduct among our students are based on an entire ignorance or misconception of the facts.

2. That we can assert that, to the best of our knowledge, the students in this University will compare very favorably with those of any other institution in the country, and we cannot too highly commend the earnestness of purpose, the propriety of conduct, and the general good character of the body of students under our instruction.

Small Doses Cure.

During the past fifty years the proprietors of Brandreth's Pills have received thousands of voluntary testimonials of the wonderful cures effected by these Pills. They not only cure rheumatism, dyspepsia, piles, diarrhœa, liver complaint and all fevers, but greatly prolong the human life. One or two at night, on an empty stomach, for a week or two is sufficient.

The Board of Supervisors of Colusa county have refused to interfere with the railroad building on the county road.

THE CONFLICT

Between disease and death is often brief and fatal. It is better to be provided with cheap and simple remedies for such common disorders as coughs, colds, etc., than to run the risk of contracting a fatal disease through neglect. DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM is a sure and safe remedy for all diseases of the lungs and chest. If taken in season it is certain to cure, and may save you from that terrible disease, Consumption. It has been known and used for many years, and it is no exaggeration to say that it is the best remedy in the world for Coughs, etc.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Latest Styles in Hats.

"What is the latest style in hats?" is a postal inquiry from a lady reader at Knights Landing. The postal was turned over to a reporter, who had a failing for hats and feathers, and in order to be able to answer the question intelligently he attended the matinee at the Clunie Opera House on Saturday last. He took a seat near the main entrance, where he could get a good view of the head-gear of every female that entered. His report embraces sixteen pages of foolscap, and is descriptive of 391 different styles. There were 392 ladies present, but one came bare-headed. No two ladies wore the same kind of a hat. Their tastes, as regarded style of hats, were evidently as different as were the faces and curls that said hats adorned. There was the tall felt hat, the low felt, the large felt, the small felt, the light straw, the dark straw, the broad straw, the high straw, the low-crowned straw, in as many varieties of straw as are obtained in the straw market. Then the velvet cap, the velvet turban, the lace cap, the crocheted bonnet, the Jersey cap, the back cap, the front cap, the tilted cap, the jockey cap, the exquisite cap, and the regular masher. These caps are set in every conceivable style upon the head, and many of them look as though they were set to catch some one. The style of hat, or bonnet, is just whatever you please to wear. The kinds enumerated above include every style that has been in fashion since the days of our grandmothers, and the trimmings in many cases are very similar, but very much louder. The reporter would have taken more notice of headgear had not two ladies entered and taken seats immediately in front of him, and their hats engaged his entire attention. They wore hats of such mammoth size that they shut out his entire view of the stage and audience, and the scribbler became lonesome and left.

A Tourist Arrested.

"Judge," said a tramp, as he stood up in the dock of the Police Court a few days ago, "I don't think you have jurisdiction in my case, and I would like to have a nolle prosequi entered."

"I have no jurisdiction? What do you mean, sir?"

"Well, you see, Judge, I am not a resident here—am only a tourist, as it were—and I think that by a careful reading of the statutes made and provided, you will find that unless a stranger commits a theft, disturbs the peace of the community or commits some overt act, he is free from arrest or imprisonment. This arrest is very embarrassing to me. It interferes with the prosecution of my labors, and may cause me to be unable to make my annual report on time."

"And pray, sir, what is your occupation?"

"Well, sir, I am a tie counter for the Government. I have counted all the ties between here and Council Bluffs, and on most of the branch roads in this State, and would have started over the California Pacific this morning had I not been ruthlessly snatched from the street by one of your police force and thrust behind the prison bars."

"Well, how do you count the ties when you take an occasional ride on a brake-beam?"

"Judge, my early education was not neglected. I can approximate by the rule of three, and arrive at very correct results. I will admit that appearances are against me—that my life is something like that of a nomad, but I am devoting it to science. I don't like your water in Sacramento, and if you will dismiss this action I will have the number of ties between here and Dixon recorded in my book before night."

The action was dismissed, and the tie counter, a few moments later, was wending his way across the Yolo bridge.

NOT HEARD OF YET.—Joseph Bronner and Louis Brendel, who have been missing since last Sunday morning, when they started out duck-hunting, have not yet been heard from. Two duck boats and a skiff were yesterday reported to have been found at Sutterville, but the one in which the hunters went out was not among them. There were many shooters out on the overflow yesterday, but they did not see nor hear anything of the men or their boat. The latter was a mud-colored duck-boat, about sixteen feet long, with movable outriggers, with places for rowlocks to screw on. There was a tin patch inside and outside of the boat, where a charge of shot had passed through. The oars and paddle were painted green, and the oars had leather bands to keep them from wearing in the rowlocks. John J. Bronner advertises a reward of $50 for information concerning his brother, and the parents of Louis Brendel a reward for the recovery of the body of their lost son.

THE CHINESE AT ROCKLIN.—A gentleman down from Rocklin yesterday says that the Chinese at that place have come to the conclusion that Rocklin is not a healthy place to reside in and have nearly all "skipped out." The Auburn Republican says: "Peanut Charlie, the Chinaman, had a rough experience last Sunday. He had heard that there was a chair down in Rocklin to mend, and, for the sake of making a bit, he recklessly determined to venture within the enemy's lines and solicit the job. He had not been in Rocklin more than two minutes before he thought he was a new cadet at West Point. After his hazing he took the train for Auburn in a very dejected state of mind. His appearance was something worse than the old Chinaman's who prospects around the streets. He says he 'heap sabbees' Rocklin, and will hereafter stick strictly to the peanut business."

BASEBALL.

The Eastern Combination Too Much for the Altas.

Waller Wallace kept faith with the public by bringing up from San Francisco yesterday, in accordance with promise, the strongest baseball nine that has ever played on the coast, headed by the redoubtable Sweeney, whose remarkable ability is conceded by all players throughout the country. His pitching is not only effective, but easy and graceful, and yesterday he shone almost equally well as a batter and baserunner. McDonald supported him excellently behind the bat, and the entire nine did good work whenever they had opportunity, and played the nine innings without an error. There was a very large attendance to witness the game, including citizens of all classes, and many ladies. The game was not as exciting as some that have been played here, but made up for it by the display of skill by the visiting players, and it was conducted throughout without noise, confusion or wrangle. J. T. Stafford acted as umpire very satisfactorily. It had been expected that the Altas would be beaten, but the sharp work of the Eastern players disposed of them for five innings more rapidly than was anticipated. It was not until the third inning that they succeeded in getting a man (Hennessy) on first base. In the sixth inning Barry and Flint tallied, the latter on an earned run. His playing was the most brilliant done on the part of the Altas, including a good catch of a strong hit by Taylor to center field, and a magnificent throw to the home plate, the double play enabling McLaughlin to stop Moore's run in. In the last inning Borchers and Stanton tallied, and the game closed with a score of 11 for the Easterns to 4 for the home club. The result, while of course mainly due to the superiority of the visitors, was attributable in part to the nervousness of the Altas in meeting such opponents. It was an off day for McLaughlin, too, and even Crone, in left field, failed to hold a fly ball, which was something he had not been known to be guilty of for many a game. Barry's pitching was creditable, but he made two bad throws to first. Blakiston held the initial position for the professionals admirably and never failed. One of the prettiest plays of the game was Sweeney's stopping of McLaughlin's hit and sending the ball to Fogarty, at second, who put out Robertson, and then threw to Blakiston, who shut off McLaughlin from first. It is on Mr. Wallace's programme to keep his nine here until Sunday, and to play against the Altas Saturday and Sunday, if the weather permits. On the latter day Morris, the rival of Sweeney as a pitcher, is expected to pitch for the Easterns, and it has been suggested that Sweeney pitch for the Altas, which would make an interesting game. Following is yesterday's score:

NOTE.—Moore was put out for running out of line.

At Recreation Park yesterday morning there was quite a large crowd of spectators present to witness the baseball game between a nine from the store of Holbrook, Merrill & Stetson and one from Huntington, Hopkins & Co.'s. It was a very amusing contest of six innings, the first-mentioned nine winning by a score of 17 to 7. There is a talk of a game between the victors and the Ariels.

DELIGHTED WITH CALIFORNIA.

What a Wisconsin Farmer Thinks of a Sacramento Winter.

In conversation with a reporter yesterday, Dr. Latham, Secretary of the Immigration Association of Northern California, said the association is doing more toward finding homes for the immigrant at this time, than at any previous date since its organization. He says he has received during the past few weeks a large number of letters from Scandinavian people, who are now residents of Minnesota. One colony, consisting of one hundred and twenty-five families, are desirous of locating somewhere in middle or northern California. They live in the neighborhood of Minneapolis, have their own schools, churches, newspaper, etc. A few days ago their agent, a very intelligent gentleman, arrived in this city and immediately called upon Dr. Latham. After a short conversation in the office, the doctor took him around the city, and showed him the beautiful grass plats, flower gardens, orange, lemon and persimmon trees, loaded with yellow delicious fruits; tropical plants growing luxuriantly, and the Minnesota farmer was, to use a California expression, paralyzed. He had never seen citrus fruits growing, and Sacramento's wealth of flowers seemed to him to be so much out of season that he could hardly believe his eyes. He said: "Doctor, I have only been in California half a day, but I have seen enough in those few hours to convince me that California is the paradise we long have sought, and you have not dogs enough in the State to drive me out. I have just left a country covered deep with a weary waste of snow, not a sign of vegetation is to be seen, and we are just at the beginning of a weary six-months winter. Here, you, to all appearances, are enjoying the beginning of spring; the herbage will soon be sufficient to feed your stock, while with us, our beasts for many months must be fed from the garnered stores in our barns. Here you say this is a disagreeable day. There, in Wisconsin, this would pass for a May morning. If I could pick up one of your beautiful yards, with its wealth of grasses, flowers, orange trees laden with their golden fruits, and set it down in Minneapolis, and say to the people of that snow-covered city this is an average of the grass plots in Sacramento, do you know what they would say? Well, they would not believe it. They would say: 'You cannot make us believe any such statements. You got that out of a hot-house.' I shall truthfully and faithfully describe all I have seen here, and what I now expect to see elsewhere, in my correspondence to the Scandinavian papers in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Chicago. My people are desirous of locating near each other, all in one county, if possible. They would like to secure a large arable tract, and cut it up into small holdings."

Dr. Latham says he has many inquiries from Iowa, Indiana, Michigan and Illinois. A colony in Rockford, Illinois, is ready to come just as soon as they can find a suitable location. Those who have come out as agents state, and from letters received from parties in the East, it is ascertained that this fall and winter has been a good time for the disposition of real estate there, and many have sold their farms with the intention of coming to California in the spring. One gentleman says the people in Dakota never tire of talking about the "glorious climate of California." He added that he thought they were justified in doing so, for two winters ago eighty-two persons were frozen to death in one county in that Territory.

SIGNAL SERVICE DISTRICTS.—A correspondent asks relative to the boundaries of the Signal Service districts on this coast. The inquiry was referred to Sergeant James A. Barwick, and in reply he says: "The northern Pacific district includes all the territory west of the Cascade range of mountains and north of the California State line, extending to and beyond Tatoosh Island, which is situated at the mouth of the straits of Juan de Fuca. The middle Pacific district includes all the territory west of the Sierra Nevada mountains, and from the State line on the north to a line (37° north latitude) on the south, beginning at Monterey Bay and running east to the mountains. The south Pacific district, all that territory south of Monterey Bay to the Mexican line, and west of a line running from the mountains in a southeasterly direction to Yuma, A. T.

Amusements.

CLUNIE OPERA HOUSE.—The Emma Nevada concert last night was a pronounced success. It was made a society event. It introduced to the new theater a company of people very many of whom had not before visited it, and by no personal observation knew what a handsome, comfortable house it is. It was the first test of the fitness of the house for musical entertainments, and the handsome room came out victorious. Madame Nevada-Palmer, after the first number, volunteered, with enthusiasm, the verdict that its acoustic properties are admirable—in fact, unsurpassed in the State; and another experienced member of the company pronounced it "a remarkably easy house upon the voice of the singer." The audience was a critical one, and representative of the culture and good taste of this people. It was a dressy audience, and the parquette, dress circle and boxes fairly glowed with the handsome costumery of the ladies. The local management had canvased the entrance hall, draped the boxes with lace curtains and lined the entrance the entire length on either side with semi-tropical plants and shrubs from the Bell Conservatory, and like adornment was noticeable in the proscenium. Extra relays of ushers in conventional "black and white" were in attendance, and cloak and hat rooms were provided. Special ornamental programmes were furnished the ladies, while baser clay was content with less elaborate guides to the entertainment. The instrumental support was a Chickering Grand, presided over excellently by Director Giorza. Emma Nevada received a cordial welcome, that grew very soon into enthusiasm. She sang first an aria from "Linda," and being thrice recalled, yielded, and sang with touching effect "Home, Sweet Home." On her next appearance, she sang with Buti, the baritone, a duo from "Rigoletto," and, after two recalls, it was in part repeated. The third time she sang "Carnival of Venice," and being thrice recalled, accompanied herself with charming ease upon the piano in the old song, "Listen to the Mocking Bird," with some added effects in the way of trills and pianissimo passages that were more than charming. Vergnet, the tenor, after "Il Mio Tesoro," was compelled to acknowledge the warm endorsement of the audience and sang, "Then You'll Remember Me." In fact, every number by every artist was encored, and save in two instances, the numbers were doubled, and thus instead of twelve the concert lengthened to twenty-two numbers. Of Nevada it is to be said that realization did not respond to expectation. Greater musical power was looked for than she possesses. Hers is not a voice of great force or strength, but one splendidly managed, under perfect conirol, of rare sweetness and remarkable sympathetic quality, and of high culture. Her tones are pure and flute-like, and in the softer passages are exquisite. if there was thinness of quality in the upper register, there was, to compensate, that fervor, flexibility and sweetness that marks only the greatly gifted concert singer, and that so admirably befits the dramatic quality that Nevada possesses in a remarkable degree. She has perceptive power, personal magnetism and delicate instincts, all of which are manifest in every musical utterance she makes. She is not such an extraordinary singer as we have been led to expect, but a true artist, gifted with splendid vocal powers, controlled by rare taste and manifest in refined expression that has not a particle of coldness in it, but warmth, feeling and great dramatic power. Nevada's voice is not yet, we think, fully developed; it foretells for her greater achievements; its flexibility promises results that will greatly more add to her fame. Lewita is a pianist of fine attainments, and who by no means is deserving the caustic, not to say coarse criticisms visited upon him by some San Francisco journals. Vergnet's voice is a pure tenor, resonant, of staying power, and broadly expressive. The drift into falsetto tones charged against him at San Francisco, was not discernible here. Buti's baritone is of good volume, but not robust, and his style is marred by a superabundance of tremulo effects. Casati is a violinist whose execution is remarkably fine. His style is bold and dashing, yet there is consummate sweetness in the limpid tones he evokes. His execution is firm, his intonation very nearly faultless and his stopping true in all respects. Without question he is a violinist of the higher order. Carano, the flutist of the troupe, did not appear, delays unavoidable, rendering it impossible to adjust the pitch of the piano to his instrument. As a whole, the concert was a thoroughly enjoyable one, the works presented being very nearly equally meritorious, and sufficiently diversified to produce what is essential in the popular concert, variety.

To-night, at the Opera House, "Rip Van Winkle" will be reproduced, with its beautiful scenery and new storm effects.

METROPOLITAN THEATER.—"Neck and Neck" drew a large audience at yesterday's matinee, and a good house at night. Mr. Stetson puts the sensational play upon the stage again this evening, with the execution scene and other startling situations.

SALSBURY'S TROUBADOURS. — Manager Simmons announces the engagement for three performances at the Metropolitan of the favorite Salsbury's Troubadours, who have been playing a very successful engagement at the Bush Street Theater, San Francisco. They will commence next Monday evening, and play the next night and at a matinee on Wednesday. The company includes Nate Salsbury and Miss Nellie McHenry, who are held in kindly remembrance by Sacramento theater-goers, and other artists of merit. The New York Sun says of the play and performance: "'Three of a Kind,' a farcical comedy, was played for the first time in this city at McKee Rankin's Theater last evening. It has all the dash and sparkle that made 'Green Room Fun' and 'The Brook' so enjoyable. The songs are witty and original. Nellie McHenry displays her usual witchery, and Salsbury himself is as quaint as ever. The play details the adventures of three New York clerks and Dolly Dashwood (Miss McHenry) at a country boarding house. One of the clerks falls in love with Dolly, who turns out to be the flame of the employer of the three men. The employer's discovery ot what is going on ends in their dismissal. They starve for twelve weeks in a garret, when, through the kindness of an uncle, they go into business for themselves, Dolly marrying the man of her choice, and Jack Potts (Salsbury) the country girl who won his love at the farm-house." Seats can be secured at Houghton's without extra charge.

CARLETON OPERA COMPANY.—The management of the Clunie Opera House are displaying great enterprise in their selection of attractions. Having presented Emma Nevada to the Sacramento public, they have now arranged for the appearance of the Carleton Opera Company, which will be December 3d and 4th, presenting on the first night "Nanon," and on the second "The Mikado," the latest sensations. They have recently been given by this combination at the Baldwin Theater, San Francisco, and in the most perfect manner, the press speaking in the highest terms not only of the performances but of the superb manner in which the operas were mounted. It is promised that they will be given here in a style equally creditable. The box sheet for the sale of reserved seats is now open at the opera house. Tickets for the dress circle will be $1 50; orchestra chairs, $1.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL.—A festival was held at Armory Hall, last evening, for the benefit of St. Rose Church, which was largely attended. Dancing was the principal feature. Floor director, George E. Hook. Floor Committee—D. J. Long, Ed. Sheehan, Joseph Genchlea, A. Wilson, T. Wiseman, A. W. O'Brien, Joseph Palm.

DONATIONS OF BOOKS REQUESTED.—Colonel Sheehan, of the First Artillery Regiment, has sent the following circular to citizens, accompanied by a postal card: "The officers' Board of the First Artillery Regiment, State militia, desire to establish a small library at the armory for the use of the officers and men. We believe this will result in good, both to those immediately concerned and the public. We therefore would solicit contributions of books from the people of this city. If you will kindly donate to us a few books, or one only, please note the same on the inclosed postal, and they will be called for and thankfully received."

AUCTION SALE OF A SALOON.—Sherburn & Smith will sell to-day at 10:30 A. M. at auction, the well-known saloon on Fourth street, between J and K, formerly kept by Xlebitz & Green. An excellent opportunity will thus be afforded any one desirous of purchasing a good business stand. The saloon is complete, and besides the usual fixtures, there is a fire-proof safe, regulator clock, pictures, etc. The entire business will be sold as one lot, if a satisfactory bid is received; if not, the property will be sold in detail. Sale positive and terms cash.

BRIEF NOTES.

Jack Burke, the pugilist, went East by Wednesday evening's train.

The steamer San Joaquin No. 4 cleared for San Francisco yesterday with grain and merchandise.

The Skating Rink theatrical combination passed through from the east side of the Sierra to Stockton yesterday.

The pay car arrived here Wednesday evening, and yesterday paid off the railroad employes, after which it left on a trip to the south.

Many of the freight cars arriving from the hill yesterday morning were covered with snow, and the boys had much fun snowballing.

The November reception of the Bric-a-Brac Club is to be held to-night at the residence of George B. Katzenstein, Twelfth and O streets.

But one arrest was made yesterday—John Brown, by officer Frazee, for an assault with a deadly weapon, on the complaint of Thomas Burns.

Business was generally suspended in this city yesterday, and, the weather being pleasant, everybody passed a pleasant Thanksgiving Day.

Flags were displayed at half-mast on the public buildings, and many others, in the city yesterday, out of respect to the memory of Vice-President Hendricks.

The sluices of H. M. Crawford, at Michigan Bar, were robbed last Tuesday night. Mr. Crawford is a poor miner, with a large family. He thinks it was the work of Chinamen.

The Sacramento river has been rising slowly during the past twenty-four hours, and at 11 o'clock last night was up to 19 feet 8 inches—a rise of 4 inches. It still has a slight upward tendency.

Under the direction of the Street Commissioner a pipe has been passed through the little inside levee between R and S streets, to drain off the water that had accumulated near the Clunie warehouse.

A few days ago the following scores were made at the 200-yard target, over the Twelfth-street range: Ed. Sheehan 40, Hughes 42, Wm. Sheehan 37, Dolan 36. Five hundred yards—Hughes 46, Ed. Sheehan 41.

The Western passenger train, due here at 2:20 P. M., was about three hours behind time in its arrival yesterday, having waited at Lathrop to connect with the Southern Pacific train. Among the passengers brought were Emma Nevada and her company, from Los Angeles.

The prisoners at the county jail had a Thanksgiving tone imparted to their bill of fare yesterday through the liberal contributions of pies and apples from the New York Bakery. DeBernardi & Co. remembered the unfortunate inmates of the city jail, and sent them ducks for their dinner.

A man visited the city recently as agent for certain publications, and engaged a number of lady canvassers, agreeing to pay them $2 40 per day and 20 per cent. commission on their sales, but requiring each canvasser to pay him $2 50 for the prospectus furnished. Some of these lady canvassers, after endeavoring to secure subscriptions to the publications, and failing, called for their pay of $2 40 per day, but were then told that they were not on salary, but must get their pay out of the percentage upon books sold. They felt that they had been imposed upon, and reported the matter to the police, in order that the agent might be restrained from following up that line of business.

At the station-house, three or four days ago, there was a general cleaning up and repairing of desks and other furniture, and it was decided that a coat of varnish would be an improvement. And now the officers are all at outs with the dyspeptic-looking cook of the city prison. He announced, with the gravity of a master of the business, that it was unnecessary to go to any expense to procure the varnish, as material for the manufacture of an excellent article was already at hand—turpentine and molasses. The guileless officer of the night-watch allowed this mixture to be applied to the furniture one evening, expecting it to be dry next morning, and congratulated himself upon the fine appearance the articles presented after the application. Next morning the turpentine part was dry enough, but the molasses asserted itself, and ever since, when an officer seats himself upon a desk, or leans wearily against something else, it requires one or two more to remove him, and sometimes he has to borrow an overcoat to go out and skirmish for a pair of unmentionables. This may, in part, account for the few arrests made recently.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES.—Union services were held yesterday in the Sixth-street M. E. Church, when Rev. Mr. Herrick, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, delivered an eloquent and appropriate sermon, which was listened to with marked attention. Services were also held at St. Rose and St. Paul churches. At the latter Rev. Carroll M. Davis delivered an eulogium upon the deceased Vice-President. He said Mr. Hendricks was a devout Christian, and had been a deacon of the Episcopal Church at Indianapolis for upwards of thirty years.

That Double-width Wool Dress Stuff (close to a Ladies' Cloth), advertised a week or so ago, as "thoroughly seasonable, thoroughly stylish and thoroughly desirable in every way," went like a flash. You will remember the price was only 50 cents.

We are to open a second case of the self-same goods this morning!

Last week we had it in seven mixtures. To-day we shall show it in ten. Do you wonder that we caution you to come promptly in order to avoid disappointment?

YES!

We can at last answer that oft-repeated question: "Are you going to keep Toys this year?"

We are.

On account of space we have not been able to keep toys every year. In those years when we did not there was more or less disappointment. People knew about what our prices would be. Naturally they didn't relish the idea of having to buy elsewhere at a large advance. Now that our store is larger we hope to keep Toys every year. Our stock for this season is already here, arranged and ready for inspection as soon as you please. It's wisdom, however, to come early. The selection is better. The crowd less.

Further particulars within a day or so.

Decidedly English.

We have been fancying all along that we had an unusually deserving collection of men's neckwear. What are we to think now that an Eastern importer sends us a large case of the very latest conceits? We can't give particulars at present, because the ties haven't been marked, but a peep into a score or more of boxes shows that it is a collection rich in those English checks we have all read so much about in London and New York papers. Also, some effective things in Persian silks, long ties, etc.

But you can see for yourself, say after 8 or 9 o'clock this morning.

If Santa Claus Grows Practical.

If Santa Claus grows practical this year and brings baby something besides playthings, then what more cute and appropriate than a pretty little bonnet?

And such bonnets as we have here! Could anything be daintier? See how deftly each bow and puff has been made! Study the designs. Study the contrasts of colors. Note the airy grace that as a whole characterizes each one of these creations. Surely, these New York and European people are artists!

HOME AND ABROAD.

REPORT OF THE COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY.

The Grant Monument—Thanksgiving Day—The Recent Storm—Interesting Foreign Items.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-UNION.]

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Thanksgiving in the East.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—The day is being celebrated throughout the city and vicinity with many ceremonies and other evidences of thanksgiving and festivity. Almost all the churches are open for public worship. In many special services will be given. The city presents a holiday appearance, which is marred only by the national flag flying everywhere at half-mast, out of respect for the dead Vice-President. Down town every business place is closed. Wall street is deserted. Broadway is silent, except for the rumble of the horse car. Troupes of gaily-attired fantasticals parade through the side streets, and the usual number of target companies and German societies are celebrating the day.

WASHINGTON, November 26th.—Thanksgiving day was observed here in the usual way. The Departments and public offices of the District were not open for business, but nearly all the heads of Departments, chief of bureaus and their assistants spent the day at work on their annual reports. The President and Miss Cleveland attended the union thanksgiving services at the Central Presbyterian Church. Rev. Joseph Kelly, of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, preached the sermon, and feelingly referred to the death of the Vice-President.

Annual Report of the Comptroller of the Currency.

WASHINGTON, November 26th.—The annual report of the Comptroller of the Currency, made public to-day, shows the total number of national banks in existence to be 2,727—the largest number ever before in operation. The Comptroller calls particular attention to the fact that banks are no longer organized especially for the purpose of issuing circulation. He says: "It is believed that the national banking system will be continued, even if the associations organized under it cannot issue circulation at a profit, inasmuch as experience has shown that it is for the best interests of the public, as well as the banks, that this business should be carried on under a general law, having effect throughout all the different States." The Comptroller believes the contraction of the national bank circulation will continue, unless some legislation is had which will increase the profit the banks derive from the issue of circulating notes. He proposes that the tax on circulation be removed, and the amount of circulation which the national banks are permitted to issue be increased to the par value of the bonds deposited by them. The report refers to the fact that although there has been a contraction in national bank notes, the circulating medium of the country has been increased by the silver dollars and silver certificates. The Comptroller says the continued coinage of the standard silver dollar, under the present provisions of the law, is in excess of the requirements of the country, and is liable to bring business to a silver basis, and cause some degree of financial disturbance.

A Denial from Speaker Carlisle.

WASHINGTON, November 26th.—Speaker Carlisle denies the report that he has begun the preparation of the committees of the House of Representatives for the next Congress. He says the proper time for him to form the committees will be after he is elected Speaker.

Baldwin to Build a Theater in New York.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—The Times says: "Lucky" Baldwin, the California millionaire, has been for the past few months seriously contemplating the advisability of coming to New York and building a theater, and he has already negotiated, albeit unsuccessfully, with the owners of a number of pieces of property in the metropolis for the purpose of putting up his proposed building. He offered $700,000 for a certain property, but the owner wanted $800,000. Baldwin is not pushed aside from his original purpose by the failure which has attended his first attack to secure a foothold. On the contrary, he has looked at a number of other pieces of property, and his negotiations are in such a state that there is likely to be a definite settlement in one instance within the next few days.

Colonel Mapleson's Way of Doing Business.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—Colonel Mapleson's Thanksgiving is not to his liking. He has virtually been ordered to close his opera season and leave the Academy at the close of the present week. Before coming here this year Mapleson was told that the only condition on which he could have the Academy was the payment of $200 a night rent, and the defraying of the expenses of heating and service for each night of his tenancy. The Colonel came, but instead of offering to sign the usual lease on his arrival, he simply waited for something to turn up, and said not one word about a lease. It is probably he will not get the Academy again for some time to come.

Joseph K. Emmett's Last Spree.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—Joseph K. Emmett, the actor, who was taken to Bellevue Hospital, Tuesday night, suffering from delirum tremens, was restored to an almost normal condition yesterday morning. His son, who had been telegraphed for, arrived with some of the company at the hospital in the afternoon, and in response to his father's entreaties took him away.

The Grant Monument Fund.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—A spirit of glee pervaded the rooms of the Grant Monument Association yesterday. The faces of visitors who called to see how the fund was getting along beamed with satisfaction at the announcement that the stumbling-block had been removed and that the treasury of the fund at length contained more than $100,000. Members of the Association have long felt that it would be comparatively easy to collect the remainder of the fund after the first $100,000 was in the treasury. The prospect of success is now most encouraging.

The Recent Storm on the Atlantic Seaboard.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—From different parts of the city and from the towns and villages in the track of the great storm of Tuesday reports continued to come yesterday of the destruction wrought. Although the individual losses are large in only a few instances, yet the injury done by wind and floods is so widespread that the aggregate losses are very great. Indeed, the damage at Long Branch and along the New Jersey coast is greater than at first reported. Several cottages suffered more or less, and the grounds of many others were sadly torn up. Water in the cellars still bothered people on the streets near the river front, and trouble was experienced at many of the ferries, arising from the fact that the high tides raised the bridges far out of the level. In the low lands west of Jersey City some of the railroads were still further damaged by floods.

Disaster on Lake Erie.

CLEVELAND (O.), November 26th.—To-day, while the tug James A. Madens was ten miles off Cleveland, on Lake Erie, looking for tows, Captain Thomas Dyer observed a capsized vessel. It proved to be the three-masted schooner Highland Maid, of Port Stanley, Ont. Not a soul was on board. The masts and rudder were gone, and the cabin had been washed away. It is supposed that Captain Oliver and his two sons, who had sailed the vessel all the season, have been lost.

Evacuation Day.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—Yesterday was Evacuation Day, but it was little noticed. Two veterans of 1812 placed the flag on the Battery flagstaff, and were the only survivors to enjoy the banquet later. Many flags, both here and in Brooklyn, were at full mast, but were lowered to half soon after 6 o'clock, because of Hendricks' death.

Georgia Anti-Prohibitionists.

ATLANTA, November 26th.—The Anti-Prohibitionists have perfected arrangements to contest the result of yesterday's election here. Fully $50,000 was wagered on the result, which is now tied up in the hands of the stakeholders. The Prohibitionists are preparing a municipal ticket to antagonize the citizens' ticket, now in the field. The Anti-Prohibitionists propose to employ Roscoe Conkling to carry the contest through to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary.

The Depletion of Large Game in the West.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—Geo. Bird Grinnell, of this city, just returned from the West, in speaking of the depletion of big game, said: "There are not more than 700 bison, or buffalo, left on the American continent. About 180 are in the Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming, and the remainder in the Pan-handle at Texas. These are all that are left by the hide-hunters. Since my return home, I have heard that twenty head of bison were killed in Yellowstone Park by a party of English tourists. If this is true, the slaughterers should be severely punished. The Government should certainly do everything to protect the few survivors."

FOREIGN NEWS.

Thanksgiving Day Abroad.

BERLIN, November 26th.—The American residents of this city held a Thanksgiving entertainment at the Imperial Hotel this evening. The fete was attended by 200 guests. Mr. Raine, who presided, regretted the absence of Minister Pendleton, which he explained was in respect to the memory of Vice-President Hendricks. The guests enjoyed a very pleasant evening. Before the close of the entertainment a dispatch was prepared and cabled to President Cleveland, expressing their sincere condolence with him upon the death of the Vice-President.

The British Elections.

LONDON, November 26th.—Later reports make the net Tory gain 20. The Standard warns the Liberals not to endanger the unity of the empire by further attempts to reduce the Conservative majority.

The Tory newspapers say that, so far, the Tory reaction exceeds the Liberal reaction of 1880.

The News attributes the defeat of the Liberals to the Church and the Parnell vote, but says there is no need to despair if the Whigs and Radicals maintain active unity.

Portsmouth has elected the two Liberal candidates.

In the municipal elections at Dublin yesterday the Nationalists won five wards, four of which had been previously held by the Conservatives.

Of the three greatest electoral towns voting yesterday, Liverpool returned 8 Conservatives and 1 Nationalist; Leeds, 3 Conservatives and 2 Liberals—Herbert Gladstone and Sir Lyon Playfair, both of whom are popular; and Sheffield 3 Conservatives and 2 Liberals. The Conservative majorities are mostly large, while the majorities of the Liberals are small. Lord Randolph Churchill carried Paddington by a vote of 2,731 against 1,025 for his opponent. The defeat of Gladstone's Minister, Hugh Childers, Lefever and two of his under Secretaries—Hater and Holmes—add to the Conservative triumph. The Liberals carried a number of new seats, but in no instance did they oust a Tory from an old Conservative seat, whereas the Conservatives' success chiefly obtains in former Liberal divisions. The National Liberal party admits this, but Liberals rely upon success in urban and county divisions to modify the result. Among the Conservatives are Puleston, of the old firm of Jay Cook & Co., and Louis J. Jennings, formerly of the New York Times—both former residents of America.

ELECTIONEERING DEVICES OF THE TORIES.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—The Sun's London special says on the elections: The Tories have reason for hopefulness, but they realize the danger of over-confidence, and are relaxing none of their efforts to carry the counties. Indeed, they are more energetic than ever before, and are proving themselves to be superb tacticians. Placards are already posted all over the country giving the results of yesterday's elections, and pointing out in glowing terms the importance of a Tory victory. Some of the methods adopted by the Tories for arousing enthusiam of electors are novel and sensational. J. B. Lundell, Maple, a prominent dry goods merchant, who is the Tory candidate in the South division of St. Pancreas, has provided immense furniture vans with seats, cushions and decorations, to convey the electors to the polls, and they were crowded all day. Several Tory candidates hired steam fire-engines, which rushed madly through the streets with bells clanging and whistles blowing, while men clinging to the engines showered Tory leaflets on the crowd.

THE QUEEN'S HOPES.

Although it is contrary to etiquette and precedent for royalty to express any preference between the parties, it is an open secret that Queen Victoria anxiously hopes for the success of the Tories. During the elections of 1880 she was in Germany, and was almost distracted as dispatch after dispatch came to her telling of an almost unbroken series of Liberal triumphs. Now she receives hourly bulletins from Lord Salisbury, many of them announcing Tory victories, and does not hesitate to express her delight at the results.

FURTHER RETURNS.

LONDON, November 26th.—The following Parliamentary candidates were elected today: City of London, R. N. Fowler (Conservative), 12,827 votes over Hubbard, 8,862; S. P. Low (Liberal), 5,817 votes over W. J. R. Cotton (Conservative), 5,563. Lambeth, Kensington division, R. Gent Davis (Conservative), 3,351 votes over J. O'Connor Power (Liberal), 2,991. Mayo, Mr. Crilly, unopposed. Kerry, Mr. Stack, unopposed. Meath, Mr. Speil, unopposed. The Liberals gained in Salisbury. The totals thus far are as follows: Liberals 91, Conservatives 90, Nationalists 6—a Liberal gain of 6 and a Tory gain of 27.

ELECTION RIOT.

NOTTINGHAM, November 26th.—An election riot occurred here to-day. Several serious conflicts took place between the mob and the police, in which forty-seven persons were injured. The troops were called out to suppress the disturbance. The wounded were taken to the hospital.

LIBERAL AND TORY GAINS.

LONDON, November 27th—A. M.—Returns up to 1 o'clock this morning show that 109 Liberals, 108 Tories and 10 Parnellites have been elected. The Liberal gains so far are 6 seats and the Tory gains 29 seats. Mr. Gladstone is fearfully chagrined over the result, and has abandoned all hope of more than the barest Liberal majority at best. He has arranged to leave Scotland on Saturday, traveling by the night mail, in order to avoid awkward demonstrations on the way.

LIVELY INTEREST OF THE QUEEN.

LONDON, November 26th.—The Queen continues to take a lively interest in the progress of the elections. This afternoon she sent a dispatch to Salisbury, summoning him to dine and sleep to-night in Windsor Castle. A special telegraph wire has been transferred to the castle, and Salisbury has directed that all election returns be promptly transmitted to him, for the information of the Queen.

The Spanish Throne.

MADRID, November 26th.—The Queen has accepted the resignation of Premier Canovas del Costello, and has called upon Senor Segasta to form a Cabinet. The new Ministry will probably contain General Jovellas, Minister of War; Senor Camacho, Minister of Finance; Senor Gonzales, Minister of the Interior; Marquis de Armijo, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Senor Montero, Minister of Justice. Senor Rios has been appointed Governor of Madrid, and General Campos Commander-in-chief of the army.

The body of Alfonso has been embalmed.

Marshal Martinez Campos has been appointed to command the Northern Army, numbering 33,000 men. Large forces of military and police are being quartered throughout the country as a precaution against a Carlist uprising.

Empress Eugenie has wired a message of condolence to Queen Isabella.

SYMPATHY OF THE POPE.

ROME, November 26th.—The Pope was profoundly grieved by the news of the death of King Alfonso, and telegraphed Queen Christina a message of condolence.

MILITARY PRECAUTIONS.

MADRID, November 26th.—The population is orderly. The first reserve force, consisting of 100,000 men, will probably be summoned to organize, and the various factions of troops in Catalonia, Castile and Biscay will be reinforced.

RESIGNATION OF THE CABINET—EXPLOSION OF A PETARD.

MADRID, November 26th.—Senor Canovas went to El Pardo again to-day and presented the resignations of the Cabinet Ministers to the Queen.

A petard was exploded to-day under a cafe in the street adjoining the Puerta del Sol. The windows in the vicinity were shattered, and three persons injured. The explosion caused great alarm. Fourteen arrests have been made in connection therewith.

THE CUBANS MOURNING.

HAVANA, November 26th.—The announcement of King Alfonso's death was received in this city and throughout the island with every demonstration of sorrow. Business, which was almost at a standstill upon the first report of his serious illness, was completely suspended when the news of his death was received. Signs of mourning are everywhere visible.

THE KING'S LAST HOURS.

MADRID, November 26th.—Cardinal Benavider heard Alfonso's confession at 7:30 A. M., Wednesday, and administered to him the last sacraments in the presence of Queen Christina, ex-Queen Isabella and other members of the royal family, and several members of the household. The King begged to see his daughters, who were in Madrid at the time. They were telegraphed for, but arrived too late to see their father alive. The King died in the arms of Queen Christina. All present were profoundly affected. The Cardinal and ex-Queen wept and the infanta Isabella fainted. Queen Christina subsequently covered the body with flowers, and for a long time refused to leave the chamber.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

MADRID, November 26th.—The Government has made arrangements for a solemn mass to-morrow morning, in the presence of the royal family, after which the body will be borne in state to Madrid. The clergy will meet the remains at the outskirts of the city, and the procession will pass through streets lined with troops. The body will lie in state three days in the hall where the body of Queen Mercedes lay. All noblemen have closed their houses, and the shops and theaters will remain shut until after the funeral.

Death of a Spanish General.

MADRID, November 26th.—Marshal Serrandy Dominguez, Duke de la Torre, a well-known Spanish General, is dead.

De Lesseps Reported Dead.

PARIS, November 26th.—Panama Canal shares fell nine francs here to-day, owing to a rumor that M. De Lesseps was dead.

DE LESSEPS NOT DEAD.

PARIS, November 26th.—The rumor of De Lesseps' death was unfounded. He is alive and well.

The War in the Balkans.

LONDON, November 26th.—A dispatch from Sofia states that the Bulgarians report that 2,000 Servians were killed at Widdin.

THE SERVIANS STILL GETTING THE WORST OF IT.

VIENNA, November 26th.—The Government has dispatched instructions to its Minister at Belgrade, directing him to visit Prince Alexander, with a view to dissuading him from an invasion of Servia. The Russian authorities are sending surgeons and medical stores to aid the suffering Bulgarians. Servia is rapidly enrolling her reserve forces, and is sending them to the frontier to meet the Bulgarian forces, which are advancing upon Pierot. Severe fighting in the neighborhood of Tsaribrod was reported to-day, and the latest accounts represent the Servians retreating.

INVASION OF SERVIA BY THE BULGARIANS.

LONDON, November 27th—A. M.—A dispatch from Sofia states that at 4 o'clock on the morning of Thursday, the 26th, Prince Alexander, at the head of 50,000 Bulgarian troops, entered Servian territory. Great enthusiasm prevails in the army and throughout Bulgaria.

Report Denied.

LONDON, November 26th.—The Times' correspondent at Vienna has been requested to deny the report that Austria intends to occupy Servia.

Another Marine Disaster.

LONDON, November 26th.—The British steamer Aurora, while leaving Hartlepool for Savannah, yesterday, struck a rock in the harbor, and subsequently proceeding, foundered within two hours. The crew left the vessel in three boats. The first boat, with nine men, landed safely. The second, with nine men, reached the shore with only six, the three others having been drowned. The third boat, containing twelve persons, is missing.

LATER.—The third boat of the steamer Aurora landed safely.

Death of Lady Rolle.

NEW YORK, November 26th.—A Herald's London special says: A historic link, the Lady Rolle, was buried to-day at Bicton. Her ladyship was the widow of Baron Rolle, the hero of that once famous, but vulgar, satirical poem, "The Rolliad." She was born in 1796, the year in which her future husband, who was born 135 years ago, was made a peer. She was the daughter of the seventeenth Baron Clinton, and was married to Lord Rolle in 1824, when he was 74 and she 28 years of age. She is believed to have been the original of Thackeray's "Lady Kew," and was a haughty and imperious stickler for the rights of the old nobility.

Cotton Mill Burned.

LONDON, November 26th.—McGoffry's cotton mill, at Preston, running 30,000 spindles, was burned to-day.

Affairs in Peru—An Important Cacerist Success.

LIMA, November 26th.—A great sensation has been caused here by the receipt of a telegram announcing that General Caceres, with his entire army, had surprised and occupied the town of Chicla on the 23d instant. After his retreat across the river at Huaripampa, followed by the Government troops, Caceres circumvented the latter by completely cutting off the Government expeditionary force. The Government commander of the town managed to escape. It was reported yesterday that Caceres had arrived in San Mateo, on the road to Lima. This city is insufficiently garrisoned, owing to all the troops having been dispatched to the provinces.

The Doomed Indians.

BATTLEFORD (N. W. T.), November 26th.—All the arrangements are completed for carrying into effect the sentences upon the six Frog Lake and two Battleford Indians. The gallows was tested this afternoon, and worked satisfactorily. The execution takes place at 8 in the morning. The prisoners are mostly resigned, but Wandering Spirit, leader of the Frog Lake massacre, is defiant, and says he would do, if free, as he did in the spring. He says he hates the white men. Some Indians are in from the country, and the sentries have been doubled in consequence. Final religious services were held with the prisoners to-night. No speeches will be made on the gallows.

$75,000.

A Royal Commission for the King of American Artists.

[Cor. of Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.]

Mr. Henry Mosler, of Paris, whose exhibition at the New York Academy of Design a short time ago, for a fortnight, attracted such general attention among art connoisseurs, stated that he was very much gratified with the success of the exhibition.

Twelve years ago Mr. Mosler removed from Cincinnati to Paris for the purpose of completing his studies, and in 1879 he won the proud distinction of being the first American artist patronized by France, and his picture, "The Return," being purchased by the French Government, and is now hanging in the Luxembourg.

When asked if he noticed any material improvement in art in this country during the past decade, he said:

"Yes, very marked indeed. The American people have wonderfully improved, and I have no doubt that they will not only become the greatest patrons of art, but eventually the greatest artists of the world will spring from American soil."

The American purchaser usually commissions some well-posted art lover to go abroad and select pictures for him. This commissioner makes his purchases of the French artist, through his agent. Purchaser and painter seldom come together.

Mr. James Wight, 757 Broadway, New York city, is frequently commissioned to do such work, and in a recent interview with a reporter, said: "The last time I was over, I picked up a very strong bit of character drawing. A middle-aged man, bolstered up in a chair, with a tub of steaming water and a blazing fire in front of him, and a table covered with various vials, was depicted in a condition of abject misery. His nurse—nearly distracted at her master's fretful commands—is a type of dismay, and the old man himself is a picture of intolerable pain. This picture affords me great personal satisfaction. I know how the old fellow feels. I, myself, for twelve years was a victim of inflammatory rheumatism, and every spring and winter was tortured beyond measure. Had the artist discovered me in one of these attacks, the picture would have been a faithful representation of my sick-room. I, too, tried hot baths and lotions and liniments, and roaring fires and plasters, and prescriptions without number, and mineral springs, but every one of them was discarded as useless."

"Yes, the picture is now a reminiscence. Three years ago, when my physician said I was beyond recovery, I made up my mind what the real cause of the difficulty was, and verified my conclusions, for I got entirely well after using a couple dozen bottles of Warner's safe cure, and I never enjoyed such robust health as I have had the last two years."

Mr. Mosler, who has never been alienated from his native land because of the flattering honors which have been heaped upon him while abroad, is going west shortly to make some preliminary studies of Indian life, having been commissioned to paint three typical American scenes for Mr. Warner, proprietor of Warner's safe cure, of Rochester, N. Y., to place in his private gallery. It is stated that these three pictures will be worth $25,000 each. It is a cause for great congratulation that these products of Mosler's best years will remain in the possession of an American gentleman, and one who, by the way, recognized his genius fifteen years ago, and encouraged him then with his patronage.
